IN THE SPECIFICATION:

Please substitute the following paragraph for the paragraph located on page 12, lines 15-20 of the originally filed specification:

--The expressor fluid may include two fluid components that, when mixed together, create a fluid that is heavier than the heaviest component of the biological sample. For example, if the biological sample is blood, the two fluid components mixed create a fluid heavier than the red blood cell component (i.e., the heaviest component) of blood, so that all the components of the blood (e.g., red blood cells, white blood cells, ~~platelets~~ ~~palettes~~) may be separated and removed from the processing bags.--.
